The Plate Road Series features a distinctive frame design that stands out from the rest. The grip is designed to be easy to grip with a natural trajectory similar to that of free weights, and the dynamic range of motion provides precise stimulation to the target for an effective workout. It is also robust and excellent in durability, and is recommended for beginners as well as advanced users for hard training.

CABLE MOTION

Cable Motion is a machine that has the benefits of both weight stacks and free weights. Adjusting the weights is very safe and easy with the pin system, and the free range of motion makes it suitable for users of all sizes. Depending on how it is used, a single machine can be used to perform a wide variety of training exercises, and it is also very difficult to lose load.

A large, black and silver multi-functional home gym machine, likely a Smith machine or similar, is the central focus. It features a barbell with several weights (5, 10, 20, 20) and various pulleys and cables. The machine is set in a modern home gym environment with wooden walls and a tiled floor. The brand name 'EVOLGEAR' is visible on the top bar.

HOME EDITION

A “professional” training environment in your own home

EVOLGEAR's Home Edition series strength products offer a variety of full-body workouts in a single machine. They are also sturdy enough to withstand intense workouts and maintain functionality for serious training, while offering a compact design and low cost for use in the home.
